African Drumming - Workshops/Courses

Rhythm Connect African Drumming and Samba Workshops are fun, entertaining, and full of cultural energy. We always start with a quick performance and warm up at the beginning of each session and talk about the history and culture of the music. We also like to allow time for a few questions at the end.

Combined drumming & percussion workshop description

We begin with a short dynamic African drumming performance, this is inspiring for students a great way to start. Then we introduction the drums and instruments and talk their cultural significance

Preliminary rhythm work to warm up, such as clapping /body percussion etc (a good ice breaker).

We then teach different drum patterns and percussion instrument parts to the group, once the students have an understanding of these individual patterns and can play them confidently we divide the group up into 4 to 6 teams and have each team play one of these patterns.

Once the rhythm is established and the drums and percussion instrument patterns are being played together as a whole, we will then introduce call and response using various drum signals and breaks. This part of the workshop is exhilarating and lots of fun.

We can also introduce a dance component into the workshop if desired. We have professional African dance facilitators that will lead some of the group through simple dance moves while the rest of the group continues to plays the music. This is a high-light and a great activity for all involved
